

AND PLANNING

The Office of Institutional Effectiveness and Planning compiles the census report twice a year. The report includes key statistics such as total number of students, gender breakdown, program-specific student distribution, CAPA and Bachelor's student demographics, faculty-to-student ratio, etc.

For Spring 2023, the data was captured on February 6. When comparing the total number of active students in Fall 2022 to the total number of active students in Spring 2023, a 12.2% increase in overall enrollment is seen. The ratio of female to male students (45:55) remained almost the same. While comparing the data from Spring 2022 to Spring 2023, there wasn't a significant variation in total number of Bachelor's students. Moreover, a 34% raise in the total number of CAPA students have been seen (mostly due to new scholarship opportunities). A significant rise in new student's enrollments is seen, a 97.3% rise compared to Spring 2022. On the other note, Architectural Engineering enrolls the most students with 27.9% of all active students, followed by Business with 21.3%, and Nursing with 10.1% respectively. There are 288 confirmed alumni in total, with the most graduates coming from the Oil & Gas Management program. The Faculty (Full Time Equivalent) to Student Ratio is 15:1. The FTE (Full Time Equivalent) ratio of full-time faculty to adjunct faculty is 2:1; as per FTE there are 26 full-time faculty members and 13 Adjuncts.
